

Curious God

In Scripture, God asks questions not because He doesn't know the answers, but for our benefit. God asks so we can reflect, learn and understand what we need to see.

Read This Week's Passage: 1 Samuel 15:10-29; 16:1

God asked Samuel, "How long will you grieve over Saul?" What do you think is the difference between honestly grieving something and becoming stuck in our grief? How can we tell when it may be time to begin moving forward?

God told Samuel to "fill your horn with oil" and preparing Samuel for what would come next. What are some of the things we can do to prepare ourselves, grow, and heal before God's "next thing" is on the horizon?

Loss may be where your story is, but it doesn't have to be where your story ends. How do Jesus' death and resurrection shape the way Christians can think about grief, disappointment, and the things we cannot get back?

Samuel was grieving what he believed was supposed to work out, and God met him in that grief. Is there a situation or relationship you are grieving? When you read this passage, what do you believe God is speaking to you about your grief? Is there something you think God is asking you to do?

What else do you notice from this week's passage?

Curious God

In Scripture, God asks questions not because He doesn't know the answers, but for our benefit. God asks so we can reflect, learn and understand what we need to see.

Read This Week's Passage: 1 Samuel 15:10-29; 16:1

God asked Samuel, "How long will you grieve over Saul?" What do you think is the difference between honestly grieving something and becoming stuck in our grief? How can we tell when it may be time to begin moving forward?

God told Samuel to "fill your horn with oil" and preparing Samuel for what would come next. What are some of the things we can do to prepare ourselves, grow, and heal before God's "next thing" is on the horizon?

Loss may be where your story is, but it doesn't have to be where your story ends. How do Jesus' death and resurrection shape the way Christians can think about grief, disappointment, and the things we cannot get back?

Samuel was grieving what he believed was supposed to work out, and God met him in that grief. Is there a situation or relationship you are grieving? When you read this passage, what do you believe God is speaking to you about your grief? Is there something you think God is asking you to do?

What else do you notice from this week's passage?

